About the University:

The Indira Gandhi National Tribal University, Amarkantak, Madhya Pradesh, has been declared as an excellent centre of tribal students of India. It has been established by an Act of the Parliament of India and came into existence by the Indira Gandhi National Tribal University Act, 2007 and came into action in July 2008. This University has one regional campus at Imphal, Manipur. The University credits more than thirty departments and various programmes such as Diploma, PG Diploma, UG, PG, and Ph.D. education. The University caters to the tribe's long-cherished dream of higher education. Students from every corner of India are being a part of this University. The University is always obligated to take appropriate measures for promoting innovations in the teaching-learning process in interdisciplinary studies and researches and to pay special attention to the improvement of social, educational and economic conditions and welfare of the scheduled tribes within the Union of India. The University is located at a beautiful hill station at Amarkantak, a well-frequented Hindu pilgrimage centre of India due to the origination or udgam of Maa Narmada river.
